

Abstract

The object of the present invention is to provide a contract safekeeping method in which a third party other than a contractor keeps a contractual coverage, and, as needs arise, may verify the contractual coverage.

An electronic contract safekeeping method includes causing a covenantee terminal connected to a contractor server therein information of the contractual coverage is kept to display the contractual coverage, causing the covenantee terminal to input safekeeping agreement information agreeing to keep the contractual coverage caused to display in the causing to display, causing the contract safekeeping server to keep the contractual coverage corresponding to the safekeeping agreement information caused to input in the causing to input the safekeeping agreement information, causing to issue a contract ID for identifying the contractual coverage caused to keep in the causing to keep the contract, and causing to notify the contract server and the covenantee terminal of the contract ID caused to issue at the causing to issue the contract ID.